COMMUNISM EXISTS
MERELY IN NAME
INVESTIGATOR SAYS

Russia Is Economically Weak and Financially Flat—Peasants
Supreme in Power Now,
Desire Peace

RUSSIA AND SOVIETISM
NO MENACE TO PEACE

Is Russia and her sovietism a menace to the peace of Europe?

This is a question disturbing those who think they see in Russia a powerful ally for Germany in possible trouble growing out of France's invasion of the Ruhr.

Tied up with it is this question:
Has sovietism really changed?

A man who has just come from Russia, and who sees her through the unbiased eyes of a philanthropist, discusses here the economic background
in which are mirrored all the probabilities of Russia as a factor for war
or peace:

By Edward Thierry

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—"Economically, Russia is weak. Financially she is flat. Philanthropy cannot restore her and only public finance can."

This is the picture painted by Allen
T. Burns, member of the Commission on Russian Relief, just returned from a four months tour of investigation.

Burns, noted for his civic and sociological work in Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Rochester, Chicago and New York, spoke with the strict emphasis that he had neither comment nor opinion on Russia's political and military aspects.

His conclusions, otherwise, are these:

"Communism exists mainly in name. The power of the peasants is becoming supreme. The peasants' passion is peace; they do not want war; a significant thing about them is their gratitude, admiration, even adoration, for the United States.

"Restoration of agriculture is the biggest thing before the republic. M.
Chicherin, the foreign minister, agreed with that, saying to me: 'The need is so pressing that it will compel us to get a foreign loan.' I ventured to suggest that if it is so pressing perhaps the soviet might be compelled to meet the terms of the people who have money to lend. Chicherin was silent."

Burns declared that step by step the peasants were forcing a change in communism.

"Russia normally is 90 per cent
agricultural," he said. "Industrial workers created communism. Now there is scarcely any industry; workers are either idle or flocking back to the land."

"Peasants forced the revocation of confiscation of grain and produce in favor of a scale of 10 to 12 per cent tax on a normal crop; they simply laid down on the job and grew only enough to feed themselves and demanded from the government dictators they were entitled to under the soviet scheme for things they didn't raise."

"The next step in revolutionizing communism was the abandonment of government operation. The government still owns everything—in name.
For example they let corporations run industries—and hand back to them 90 per cent of the profits; it is simply under a different name taxation of 10 per cent of private enterprise."

Burns made it plain that he could see no political forecasts. His emphasis was on the declaration that every consideration of Russia must go back to agriculture, which is Russian life, backbone, and ruling motive.

"The outstanding fact is that for the past two years she has been planting but 50 per cent of normal," he said. He pointed out that the famine due to the drought of last summer was 50 per cent as bad as that of 1921 and affected an area in-vich there are 15,000,000 people.

Bostonian Goes To Europe For Rest
And Gets It---By Capturing Memel

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—Anthony Ivas, banker and insurance broker of South
Boston, had a nervous breakdown.

To rest he sailed for Lithuania on a visit to his parents. He cured his ragged nerves by starting a revolution
that was heard around the world.

Ivas, who is 36, is the man who captured Memel. And now he's a hero there, and they call him the "Uncle Sam of Lithuania." Over there
he's the "de facto president" of Lituania. Here he is president of the Baltic States Financial Corporation,
owns a real estate agency, a three-story building, and a banking, insurance and steamship business. His home is on a boulevard overlooking Dorchester Bay, where he has a wife and three children.

"His letters are full of politics
which I don't understand," said Mrs.
Ivas, telling of his strenuous rest cure
and his triumphs.

This is what his letters told: when he reached Memel he saw the Lithuanians suffering oppression from the government. So he started a tour of speaking, urging the peasants to form their own government. And he put pep into his plea by digging up 2,000,000 marks—$100 in real money!
—to start a freedom fund. The result was a rise to arms—and the capture of the Memel district.

Ivas went revolutionizing with the same enthusiasm that marked his rise in America. When he came to South Boston 19 years ago, a youth of 17, he was immediately cheated out of his small savings by a fellow countryman. He started saving again and laid the foundation for his present business.

Business was not neglected on that strenuous trip back to Memel, either.

MERCHANTS ASSN
MEETING POSTPONED

Officers Building Up Organization
For Better Work—S. M. Reams
New Secretary.

Owing to the inability to secure a speaker from Knoxville, the meeting of the Merchants' Association which had been planned for next Tuesday has been postponed. It is probable that it will be held about February 15, according to W. S. Anderson, president of the organization.

Efforts are being made by the members to make the association bigger,
better and more efficient than ever before. Stephen M. Reams has been made secretary and has begun work of the association with a will. Members are of the opinion that he will be an efficient officer.

Plans for an affair similar to the harvest festival of last year are already being discussed by the merchants. It is hoped that this event will be even more successful than the one of last fall.

The men seem to be taking a renewed interest in the work of the association, according to Mr. Anderson, and it is thought that with the regular meetings which will keep them
in closer relation with each other,
the organization will be a real service to the retail business of the city this year. A closer check will be kept on ratings of customers and efforts will be made to secure reports from the Pineville magistrates' courts
similar to those obtained here.

Three speakers from Knoxville had promised to come to the meeting proposed for this week, but owing to sickness each of them was unable to attend. Mr. Anderson said that a speaker, an expert on retail subjects, could be secured by February 15, however, and that an enjoyable and successful meeting is expected. This next meeting will be held at the Cumberland Hotel. A permanent meeting place has not been decided upon yet.

in Memel. He predicts that Memel will be a "second New York," says his wife.

"Of course, I'm proud of what he has done," said Mrs. Ivas "but I've cabled him to come home. He may get shot if he stays over there. I've just had a cable from him in which he says he is returning some time this month. I think he needs a rest."

His son, Paul, who is five, isn't worried about his father getting shot.

"My daddy can lick anybody in Europe," he says, proudly. "I want him home, though for he promised to bring me a jackknife."

PINEVILLE HIGH
LOSES TO L. M. U.

"Mountaineers" Lose 22 to 12—All
Stars To Play L. M. U. Team
Tuesday.

Pineville, Feb. 3.—The "big boys"
from L. M. U. invaded the Pineville basketball territory Friday and refuted the "Mountaineers" in an interesting battle by the score of 22-12.

The Pineville team showed a great improvement over their past performances and with a little more experience they will keep up the athletic reputation which they established in football. Vanbever and Carns played a great game at guard for Pineville but the offense was not up to standard.

The lineup is as follows:
T. Carns F. Murray
Rollins, Green F. Quincy
Weller C. Ausmus
Vanbever G. Bryd
J. Carns G. Grazzel, Carr
Referee: Jack Porter.

Arrangements were made for a game between the "Pineville All Stars" and the team from L. M. U.
to be played at Pineville next Tuesday. This should be a fast game as the All Stars have not been defeated.

A preliminary game was played between the junior and senior girls which resulted in a 5-4 victory for the juniors. The game was hard fought and the close guarding on both sides made scoring almost impossible.

TRIGG THOMAS
REVIVAL CLOSÉS
HERE LAST NIGHT

Services Bring 81 Conversions, 457
Reconsecrations and 13 Promised Church Renewals—29 New Church Members

MEN ONLY MEETING YESTER-DAY BIGGEST OF SERIES

Eighty-two conversions, 457 recon-secrations and thirteen promises to move church memberships have resulted from the series of revival meetings which have been conducted during the past three weeks by Rev. Trigg Thomas at the First Presbyterian church.

With three great services yesterday,
the revival came to a close.
The services held by the evangelist
have not been denominational in character. Only twenty-nine of the converts have joined the Presbyterian church. A number of them will join the Baptist, Methodist and Christian churches. Rev. Thomas has been able to reach almost every one in Middles-boro with the services at the church each night, at the co-ophouse and pool room for men only in the mornings, the daily prayer meetings, and the other special services for men
only and for women only.

The special service for men only at the church at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon was a great success. The church auditorium including the Sunday school department was filled with men and boys. The evangelist's subject was "The Meanest Man in Mid-dlesboro."

Describes "Meanest Man"

"The man that has great opportunities to do good, who has a great influence but who fails to come out and make a stand for Jesus Christ,
that is the meanest man in Middles-boro and he may not be the gambler or the bootlegger," declared the evangelist.

He said that Cain, slayer of his own brother, Esau who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage and Saul, wicked king, and self-murderer were the meanest men of the old Bible. As the meanest men of the new testament, he mentioned Judas, betrayer of the Savior, Pilate, Roman governor who failed to make a stand for God
and Ananias, man who lied to God.

"The man who goes out and buys whiskey, sells it or drinks it in violation of the Eighteenth Amendment is as dirty, rotten and lowdown as if he had taken the American flag, spit on it, torn it and trampled it under foot," declared Rev. Thomas. A chorus of "amens" greeted the statement. "And if what I preach interferes with any man's business in this town he has a dirty, rotten lowdown business," he continued.

Great Men's Meeting

The service was greatly enjoyed by the men. Rev. Thomas said that he had preached in towns from Norfolk to San Francisco to audiences varying from 100 to 10,000 men and that he had never addressed a crowd of men who gave more rapt attention than did those yesterday afternoon. At the close of the service decision cards were passed around and practically every one signed. All present shook hands with the evangelist, Dr. J. A.
Gray, Rev. S. P. Martin and Rev. W.
K. McClure.

Yesterday morning's service at which the evangelist spoke on the subject of "God's Unspcakable Gift" and the service last night in which he delivered his sermon entitled "The Value of the Soul" were well attended.

The town has been shaken by the revival. Rev. Thomas and his excellent work is the subject of discussion in all parts of the city. He has made a great appeal to the men of Mid-dlesboro particularly during the special services and the work has brought beneficial results.

Sues Doctor For Damages

her collar bone, according to her petition, and alleges that Dr. Hoskins failed to properly adjust it.

LYNCH BRASS BAND PLAYS
AT ITALIAN FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services over the remains of Frank Fruci, Italian, who died at the Broshier-Brummett hospital Saturday, by Dr. J. A. Gray in the Chapel of the Gibson Undertaking establishment at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The six-piece brass band from Lynch rendered the funeral music. Dr. Gray used the Episcopal burial rites. The band preceded the funeral procession on to the Lynch cemetery where interment took place at 2:30.

The deceased was fifty-five years of age. He had lived in Middlesboro about one year having come here from Harlan. He is survived by four children who live at Harlan.

Discuss District 19 Policy Toward Spring Wage Negotiations
And Contracts

Knoxville, Feb. 3.—Wage board members and resident officers of District 19, United Mine Workers of America, meeting here Friday discussed plans looking to formulating or policies to govern negotiations for miners' wage contracts in the spring.
No definite program was mapped out at this meeting. President Turnblazer reported after the conference adjourned.

Eight officers of the district, which comprises East Tennessee and Southeastern Kentucky, attended the meeting presided over by Mr. Turnblazer.
Preparatory steps for opening negotiations for contracts on which the meeting was held Friday. Were held at an executive convention of miners and officers last Sunday at Pineville, Ky.

When asked concerning the policy
the United Mine Workers of this district would adopt toward the Southern Appalachian Coal Operators' association and toward the Harlan County Coal Operators association two of the largest groups of operators of this district, Mr. Turnblazer was non-committal. His only reply was "I am saying nothing but we are 'sawing wood.'" Officials of the United Mine Workers have been very busy in preparation for the negotiations since the conference in New York between miners and operators, deciding the wages for the central competitive fields.

But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.—Luke 18:16.

COMMENDATION OF NEW TEXTBOOK COMMISSION

Throughout the state of Kentucky general satisfaction is being expressed over Governor Morrow's selection of textbook commission members. "It is, the best textbook commission we have ever had," was Superintendent Colvin's enthusiastic commendation, and other leaders are expressing similar sentiments.

The new commission, which will serve four years, follows:

Frank L. McVey, president of the University, Lexington; M. B. Adams, president of Georgetown College, Georgetown; H. H. Cherry, president of Western State Normal and Teachers' College, Bowling Green; H. L. Denovan, dean of Eastern State Normal and Teachers' College, Richmond; Zenos E. Scott, superintendent of schools, Louisville; J. H. Woods, president of Cumberland College, Williamsburg; J. L. Brown, superintendent of schools, Owensboro; Ralph E. Hill, superintendent of schools, Somerset; Ralph Yaker, superintendent of schools, Paducah; and W. J. Caplinger superintendent of schools, Maysville. Governor Morrow is ex-officio chairman of the commission and George Colvin, state superintendent, is ex-officio secretary.

Every one of these men is a recognized leader in the educational life of the state and a majority of them hold high degree from leading American educational institutions. They are men with principles above political corruption and bribery.

In former years Kentucky, as well as other states of the union, has often known disgraceful debasement in the selection of textbooks. Unprincipled men have served as commission members and the contracts for textbooks have literally been let to the highest bidder. The sufferer, of course, was the school children of Kentucky, and the poor textbooks in use have a decided effect on education. Kentucky is looking for the new commission members to change the old order of things and Kentucky is confident that this trust will not be betrayed.

"Any mail for me today?" This time Nick looked. But still nobody was there.

"That's queer!" he remarked. "I was sure I heard somebody. Bye!" he went back to his work.

"Any mail for me today?"

"For goodness sake!" cried Mr. Stamps. "Who is it anyhow?" There must be somebody there. "I'll look myself."

"Too!" said a voice suddenly and everybody jumped.

"Why it's Mr. Pin Pin the Browne man!" cried Nancy with a shout of delight. "No wonder we couldn't see him. He's so little. There he is, on the window sill!"

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

ROVERS CHANT

By Berton Braley

Let's go roll, roll, rolling down the road.

Trump, tramp, tramping down the trail.

Oh, we'll roam, roam, roam, till we come back home.

Greeting every rover with a hail, hail, hail!

Let's go blow, blow, blowing with the wind.

Swing, swing, swinging on along.

Oh, we may not know where to go, go, go.

Put the beat, beat, beat of our fading feet.

Is the drum for our marching song.

Under the vault of the sky overarch.

We shall go marching, marching, marching.

Over the hilltop and down in the hollow.

Following paths that the wanderer follow.

Who has the heart and soul of a rover.

Wary of doing things over and over?

Let him be one of us, treading the loam.

Round the wide world, round the wide world.

Round the wide world and home!

Come, come, come along, with us.

Hum, hum, hum a roving song with us!

Sun, wind and rain and the free road before us.

Hark to the beat of the chorus:

Let's go roll, roll, rolling down the road.

Trump, tramp, tramping down the trail.

For we'll roam, roam, roam, till we come back home.

Greeting every rover with a hail, hail, hail!

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

KATE WARD, widow of DAN WARD, has a visitor.

CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Dan was father of her child.

DOROTHY. Kate is much perturbed. A few evenings later she and her father, JUSTIN PARSONS, find near their home the unconscious victim of an auto crash.

JAMES LATHEAM, and carry him in. He recovers and vows Kate is develops that he knew Dan and through his aid Kate obtains an old trunk the latter owned. To determine to see if Alice recognizes it Kate invites her on a visit. The girl, obtaining leave of absence from the laundry of SING LOY, where she works, comes bringing Dorothy.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Kate watched as Alice glanced at the trunk and then saw the girl turn away with an untroubled face.

"You're fixed a lovely place for me to live in for two days," said Alice. She walked across the room, took both of Kate's hands and looked earnestly into her face.

She was lovely in her sincere mood. Kate could understand her attraction for men.

"No one's been so nice to me since my own mother died," Alice continued, "unless it is Sing Loy, and of course he doesn't count."

Again Kate felt a sort of pity for the gentle little oriental. He had stood so helplessly by while Alice cried that day in the laundry. He was so obviously, so wearily fond of the girl.

"Don't you ever feel sorry for Sing Loy?" Kate asked.

"Yes," Alice was grave, "and it's funny, too, because he doesn't need my sympathy. He's got plenty of money for himself. He's lent some to me often—I've never paid it back."

There was a trace of regret in the tone "I guess he knows when he gives it to me that he'll never see it again. He never asks me for it."

"You have to use it for yourself and Dorothy to live on?" Kate suggested.

"For ourselves?" wonderingly "Oh, no! But—"

Alice was confused. She couldn't find the words to go on.

Kate was puzzled. She felt she had no right to press the girl for explanations of her personal life. She was thoughtful, however, during dinner and more than once, when Alice wasn't looking, she studied the girl's face. She wondered what need Alice had for money if not for herself and Dorothy. Finally the question took shape in her mind. "Who is the third person for whom Alice is providing?"

She made no further reference to the matter that evening, however. And she found Alice a delightful companion.

"I wonder why I feel so sorry for Sing Loy?" Alice brought up the subject after dinner. "He has more than I have and will always be comfortable."

"You feel sorry for him," said Kate, "because Sing Loy loves you and you do not return his affection."

"Loves me? Sing Loy loves me?" wonderingly.

"Yes, he does, Alice," Kate answered. "Sing Loy loves you so much that it is evident in every move he makes. And you must be a pretty nice sort of girl since you feel as you do toward him."

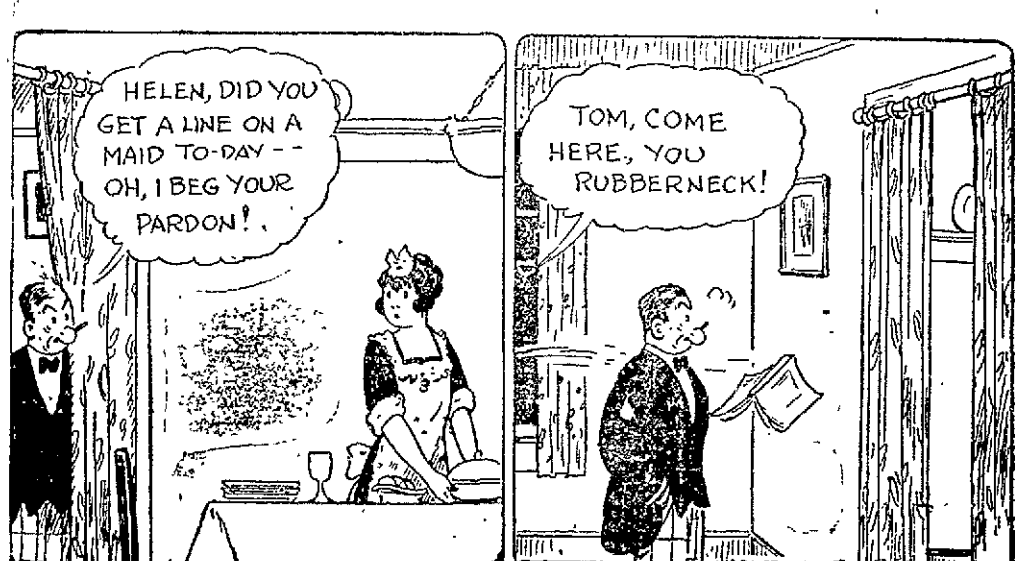

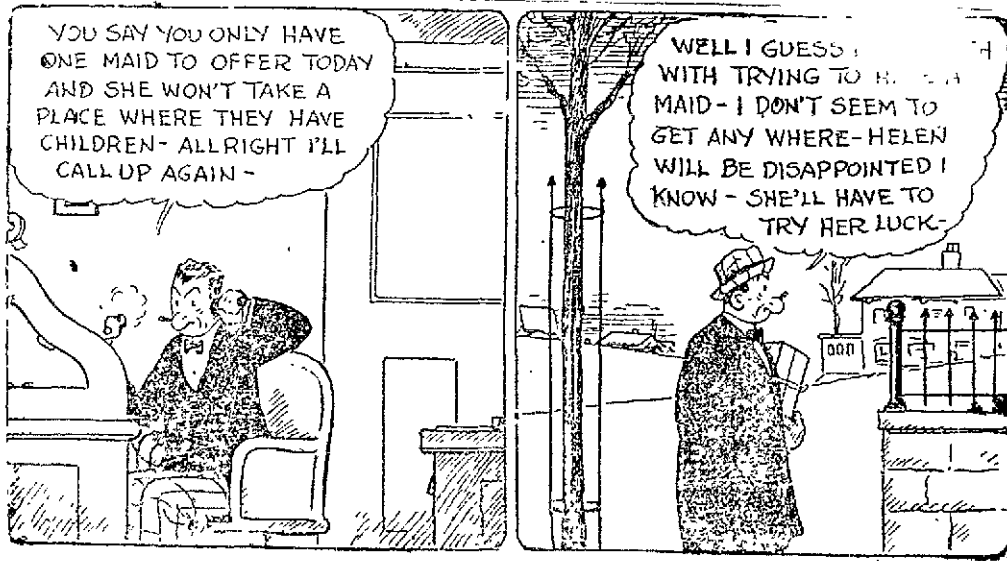

"If you were the other sort," Kate continued, "the mercenary sort, you'd laugh at him and you'd accept everything he'd do for you—giving nothing yourself."

Guests

Guests arriving at a public dance should greet the patronesses with a friendly smile and word or two, as at private affair, but it is not required that they should offer their hands or be shaken unless the patronesses take the initiative. The guests may stay for dance or two, or for the evening, as they please. On leaving, it is unnecessary for them to seek out the patronesses to say goodbye.

Pinkerton, Sleuth Tells How To Save Self From Crooks

Don't admit strangers who say they are meter readers or ice men—

By Wm. A. Pinkerton, Dean of American Detectives

For Men

DON'T get intimate with casual acquaintances.

DON'T buy stock until the venture has had a thorough checkup.

DON'T be lured into a friendly card game aboard trains or steamships.

DON'T carry large sums of money around.

DON'T try to resist an armed footpad when the thing looks hopeless. He'll kill you.

DON'T be intrigued by an easy scheme to make money where you must do something shady to make it.

DON'T think you are too wise to be caught. The biggest fall 'he hardest.

For Women

DON'T let any stray (male) acquaintance ensnare you with an oily tongue into friendship.

DON'T be known as a person who wears her jewels and expensive furs about.

DON'T admit strangers in the house who say they are meter readers or ice men.

DON'T leave windows unlatched when away from the house, or keys under the mat on the front doorstep.

DON'T let any blackmailer frighten you with letters of threat for anything. Show the letters to your husband or to the police.

DON'T make any investments if you are unskilled in such things until after you have consulted a reliable banker.

to the steak.

Fry the onions and steak in the fat until meat is well browned. Place in a casserole, or leave in an iron frying pan, add the water and cook, closely covered, for one and one-half hours. Season the gravy more, with salt and pepper if necessary, add one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce or one tablespoon tomato ketchup, and serve with carrots and potatoes, boiled, buttered and sprinkled with chopped parsley.

Cheer up. About $18,000,000 less gold was chewed last year.

Next couple seeking divorce will be canned beef and cabbage.

SAFETY

A LADY'S MISTAKE

A young lady wanted to take a trip two years ago and of course she wanted to take money with her for expenses.

She came to the bank to ask about the safest way. We advised her to take a supply of Traveler's Checks.

She decided to take $100 worth of these checks. As we started to prepare them for her we said: "What denomination do you want?" and she replied:

"Why I'm Methodist, you know."

Traveler's Checks are in convenient amounts like $10, $20, $50, etc. We wanted to know what sizes she preferred. She took six $10 checks and two $20 checks. During her trip she cashed one at a time and never was worried by having too much cash at any time.

ALL CANADA IS REVELING IN A MID-WINTER SPORTS CARNIVAL

LITTLE ELSIE, THE PRIDE OF MONTREAL, YOUNGEST SKI-EXPERT

OLIVER KALDAHL, FAMOUS SKI-JUMPER, DOES A DANGEROUS STUNT ON DUFFERIN TERRACE SLIDE, QUEBEC

MERRY BOBBIING PARTY ON ONE OF QUEBEC'S MANY HILLS

What care we for cold or blow? Here away! There away! Down we go!

All across Canada this cry and variations of it, echo through clear, crisp days and nights till the warm March winds begin to blow. There toboggan slides bob up as profusely when snow appears, as do mush-rooms after spring rains. Cana- dians, young and old, are ardent lovers of out-of-doors and of winter sports; the snowshoe and the ski, the toboggan and bobsled are typical of winter life in the North-land.

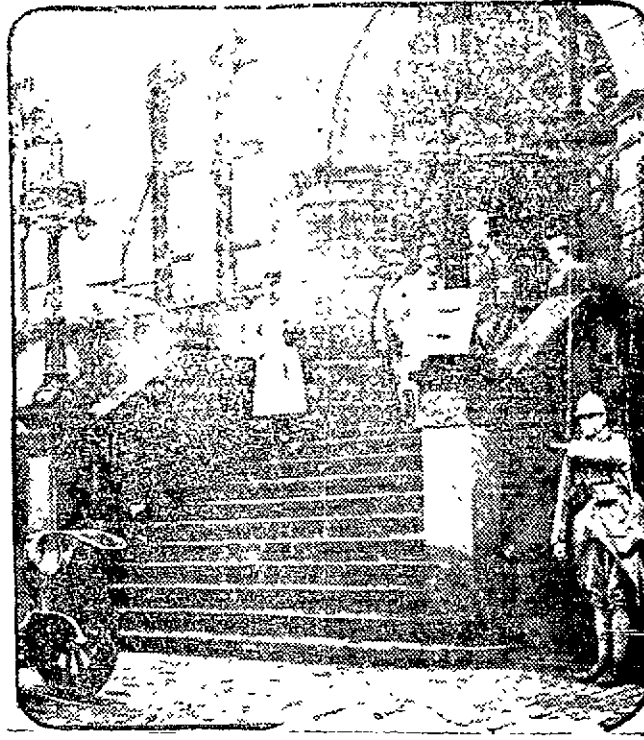

Organized winter sports pro- grams and seasons have been car- ried out by a number of the large- er cities for years. A mention of winter in Canada suggests the tur- rets of Old Quebec towering above Dufferin Terrace on which local and visiting sportsfolk, clad in the demerit of sport togs, make merry all day and late into the night. This year's season has out- rived all former years in the matter of widespread and elaborate winter sport preparations. Montreal has headed the list with an intriguing program for six weeks of fun and frolic. In Mount Royal she pos- sesses a wonderful playground, as it affords slides of all sorts,—ski- ing, coasting, and tobogganing. In addition, a mammoth six-track to- boggan slide has been erected and merry, laughing, shouting throngs enjoy its thrills at all hours. The many snowshoe, ski, curling, hoc- key and lacrosse clubs co-operate to make the parades and evening illuminations of Mount Royal spec- tacular events.

Montreal being but a short dis- tance from many American cities, draws from them large contingents of winter sports who find com- fort and luxury in the excellent hotels of this Canadian metropolis.

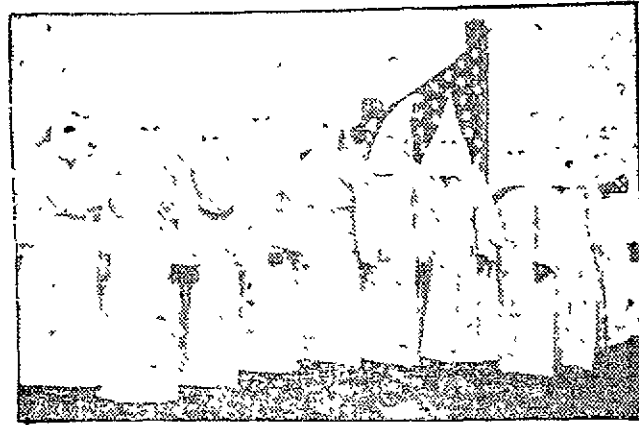

Since its earliest days Quebec City has frolicked the winters away by sporting on its hills. Each year witnesses the addition of new sport features for the revels on Dufferin Terrace, and the management of the Chateau Fron- tenac is ever alert to provide sur- prises and pleasures for its win- ter guests who hail from all parts of Canada and the States. This year's sport season has been en- riched by the presence of thirty curlers from Scotland. They are playing Canadian curlers all across the Dominion and will also play in several American cities. These matches coincide with carnival days in each city played. So far, Canadians have a share of victo- ries to their honor. A very exciting Dog Derby will be run at Quebec, Feb. 22-24, with a purse of $2,000 hung up as prizes; the course is 150 miles to be run in daily laps of 60 miles.

One Driver, 30 Horses, 8 Wagons set World's Team Record

ON THE ROAD

AT THE ELEVATOR

VULCAN, ALTA.—A world's record in the hauling of grain was established when one team driven by one man, delivered a freight carload of wheat at the elevator in Vulcan.

The wheat totaled 1,144 bushels and was loaded in eight wagons drawn by a team of twenty horses and ten mules. This world record team of thirty head was driven by Ralph Moorehouse. The length of team and wagons was 245 feet. The haul was a distance of twenty-two miles; and the one-team car- van traveled two miles an hour.

News of the big team spread rapidly and 1,500 people had assem- bled to watch its entry into town. The crowd cheered Moorehouse's marvelous display of horsemanship and the intelligent and instant re- sponse of the horses to a pull on the line, the call of a name or a blast on a whistle. The driver's skill in turning corners in town and in negotiating the double curve on the approach to the elevator was especially remarkable.

Each wagon was halted and weighed on reaching the scales. The eight wagons were unloaded in one hour and seventeen minutes. The grain was elevated thirty feet and a half minutes by Frank Keiver of the elevator. The loading of the grain on the farm had required the labor of five men working one and three-quarters hours.

Moorehouse makes a business of hauling grain in the Vulcan dis- trict, whose fame as a wheat grow- ing and diversified farming region in one of the most fertile parts of Alberta is attracting many settlers. He may be seen almost daily on the prairie roads driving a team of twelve horses with a dexterity that has made him famous.

As a result of his record-brea- king performance in handling a team of thirty animals, Moorehouse has been acclaimed champion teamster of Western Canada.

206-YEAR FIGHT WON AS MENACE OF MISSISSIPPI FLOODS IS CONQUERED

VIEWS ON THE BANKS OF THE MISSISSIPPI, SHOWING THE LEVEL OF THE WATER HIGHER THAN THE SURROUNDING COUNTRY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 5—A battle of 206 years' standing between nature and man at last has been ended—and man has won!

Nature is personified by the Mississippi River, churning and gurgling in its eagerness to leap the hurdle of levees and flow forth to lay waste to the surrounding country and sweep away homes and crops.

Man is personified by the government engineers and others who have been improving the levee system. They think that after 206 years of ly built embankments gave way. Five hundred miles of country along the lower course of the river, always in imminent danger from every rise, is protected now by standardized levees.

Where the country is lower than the river bed, as in part of Arkansas up on the land side by banquettes 20 feet wide for levees from 10 to 15 feet high. Banquettes are made five to eight feet lower than the levees they reinforce and make doubly strong.

Bed Growing Higher?
Another bugaboo that has beset dwellers in the valley is the belief the river is building its bed higher and higher and that some day the river will be so far above the level of surrounding land that no artificially constructed banks can hold it.

Captain Edward N. Chisolm, of the engineering corps, secretary of the Mississippi River commission, declares that no such thing is happening.

of the organization. Announcements of the proposed tag day have been sent out to the various state bodies by Mrs. Betty Harris, state organizer. Mrs. A. H. Morehead of Lexington, has been made tag day chairman.

Mrs. George Weldon of Louisville, president of the state organization, has sent out word to the local chapters of the organization telling of the work done by Mrs. Harris and urging everyone to co-operate in the tag day drive. No state funds have been appropriated for this work, according to Mrs. Weldon, and the organization work has been carried forward by the splendid co-operation of a comparatively few interested women.

The plan calls for the raising of at least $2,000. on February 17. Pencils and paper stationery, and other small profits derived therefrom will go into the treasury of the organization, according to the announcement sent out by Mrs. Morehead.

SAYS SENATE IS LIKE MULE

By Harry B. Hunt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—A career in Congress? Membership in the United States Senate as a life ambition? "Bah!" says John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, grizzled veteran of 30 years in Congress, 12 of them in the Senate.

"The most unlucky day in my life was the day I decided to run for Congress. The happiest, I anticipate, will be March 4 when I'll get out."

John Sharp, it should be said, is quitting voluntarily. His disgust is not the disgust of a defeated candidate.

"I don't know just why," he told the writer, "but after I got in I was always darn fool enough to keep on running. But now I'm through. I'm going to leave this august scene and take my refuge with the birds and my books and my grandchildren."

"I want to forget the damn thing. It's like a big mule I used to own down on my Yazoo River plantation."

"One of my negroes came to me one day and said: Boss, dat am sho'ly a powerful fine mule, but he suttinly do make the mostest sideways motions and travels futher 'bout gittin' no place en any mule I ever seed."

"That's the Senate! It travels all over, but seldom gets any place. there is too much side-stepping, too much lost motion to get anywhere."

"After nearly 30 years of public service, I am more than ever convinced that the best government in the world is the government which a man exercises over himself."

Least Ruled, Best Ruled

I still believe the power of government over the individual and over business ought to be restricted. And I still believe—to some extent at any rate—that the least-governed people is the best-governed people."

"But, senator," the interviewer said, "there must be some big milestone in your Congressional career you can regard with pleasure. What do you regard as the biggest thing in your congressional life?"

"I haven't reached it yet," Williams said. "I'll reach it March 4. For the biggest milestone in my life will be my leaving the United States Senate."

"And you bet I'll be glad to go!"

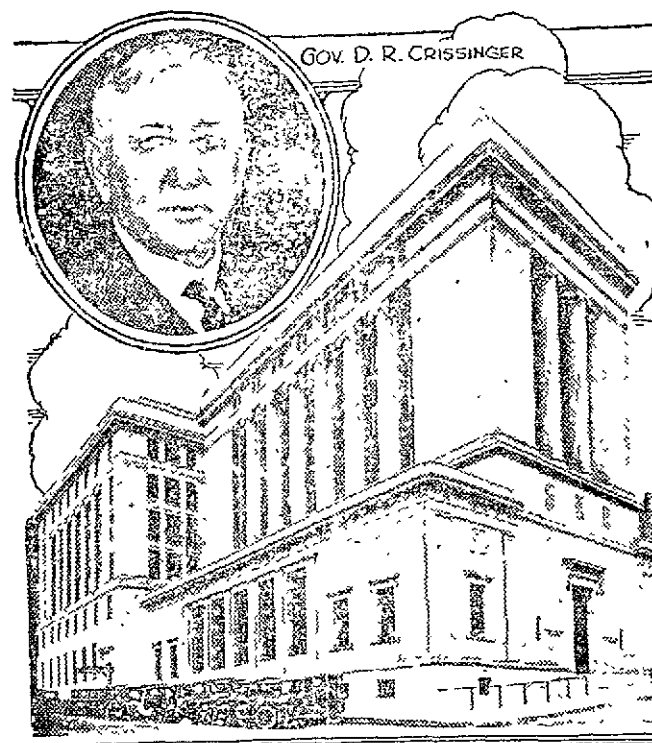

INCOME TAX FACTS (NO. 1)

Revenue officers are visiting every county in the United States to aid taxpayers in the preparation of their income tax returns for the year 1922. Information concerning the date of their arrival and the location of their offices may be obtained by writing the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives.

Forms for filing returns of individual net income for the year 1922 are being sent to taxpayers who filed returns for the year 1921. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to file a return and pay the tax on time, on or before March 15, 1923. The forms, 1040A for filing returns of net income of $5,000 and less and 1040 for filing returns of net income in excess of $5,000, may be obtained from collectors of internal revenue and deputy collectors.

Returns are required of every single person whose net income for 1922 was $1,000 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more and every married person whose net income was $2,000 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more. Careful study of the instructions on the forms will greatly aid in making a correct return.

CLASSIC BEAUTY AND IDEAL TYPE TYPIFY UNCLE SAM'S MONEY HOUSES

Gov. D. R. Crissinger

The policy of constructing federal reserve bank buildings which will harmonize, or even lead, in "city beautiful" plans will continue, it is understood among architects, under the new governor of the board, D. R. Crissinger. Architects are practically a unit in insisting that these buildings, scattered over the country at strategic centers, shall express not only the idea of permanence and stability, as left the home of immense treasure, but also an ideal of beauty in architecture at once classic and yet American.

MORE ENERGY IN BREAD THAN MEAT

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY IN HIS GARDEN ON HIS 78TH BIRTHDAY

"There is more energy in a pound of bread than in a pound of meat."

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley is given as the authority for this statement, showing bread is the most wholesome and economical of all foods. Some scientists qualify this by saying it depends on the bread.

Do you use baking soda instead of yeast in making bread? This is a dangerous thing to do, it is said, because unless the soda is neutralized by an acid, such as sour milk, it apparently destroys the vitamin of the grain, thus in raising vitamin deficiency.

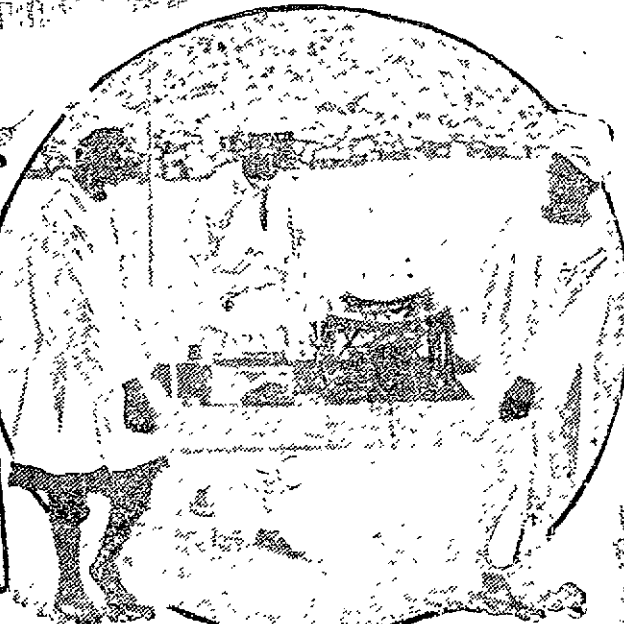

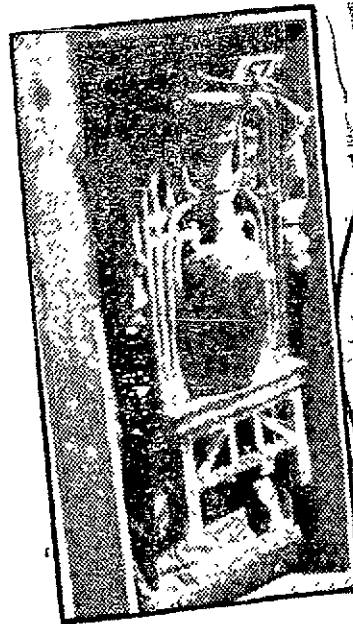

Do you put a pinch of baking soda in peas or beans? Then you are cooking them. It makes them nice and tender and preserves their fresh green color. But this presents a danger, for the same destructive effect upon the vitamin in the peas and beans that it does upon the grain in bread. Dr. Alfred C. Reed, of Stanford University Medical School, is the authority quoted in these attacks against the use of soda.

All of which is additional cause for the growing popularity of the little foil-wrapped collection, yeast. It is because common yeast is known to be the food richest in vitamin, which modern milling and cooking methods are said to remove, that people are eating yeast to complete what in many cases would be an otherwise deficient diet.

But in spite of his efforts to popularize the spud, it was half a century or more before it became an article of general consumption abroad.

Today, a new food product becomes nationally known almost overnight. Modern methods of distribution quickly place it in thousands of stores. Advertising tells the public about it in the newspapers. People try it, like it, and shortly it is in general use throughout the country.
